

IGA Diploma in Groupwork Practice (York) Diploma Year

For students who have completed an IGA Foundation or Introductory Course

Thirteen Fridays and two Saturdays between 1 October 2021 and 25 June 2022

Successful completion can lead to Associate Membership of the IGA as a Groupwork Practitioner

in conjunction with

The Diploma year follows on from the IGA Foundation course, which students must previously have undertaken, either in York or elsewhere. It is not a requirement that the two years of training immediately follow one another.

The syllabus for the diploma year includes the theory and practice of group analysis; concepts of group therapy, including other approaches, applications of groupwork in health and social care and research & evaluation. Seminars are led by experienced practitioners in their fields. The course includes a median group, where the Foundation and Diploma years combine. Two work reflection group sessions in the afternoons provide the opportunity to apply 'group analytic thinking in action' to students' own work in group settings. In April 2022, there is also a 'National Learning Experience' (NLE) event for all IGA Diploma students across the U.K., held at one of the IGA course locations.

Assessment of students' work is undertaken through a combination of written work (a trial essay and two assessed essays), a minimum attendance requirement and a report from the work reflection group supervisor. Students are registered as student members of the IGA and have access to the library, a substantial virtual learning environment of relevant and other facilities. On successful completion of the diploma year, students receive the award of Diploma in Groupwork Practice and may apply to the IGA for Associate Membership as a Group Work Practitioner. This is subject to providing evidence of satisfactory clinical practice in running a group under external supervision. If students are not able to submit this evidence by the end of the course year, they have the opportunity to submit the clinical practice evidence and gain Groupwork Practitioner status at a later date.

Optional course components:

- Students are encouraged to be in group-analytic psychotherapy during the course. We offer an intensive therapy group option on the Saturday following the course day. See website for details.
- Students without workplace supervision for their groups may join a supervision group arranged by York Groupwork Ltd.

Closing Date for Applications: Friday 3rd September 2021

Application process: Candidates complete an application form and attend an interview, involving both course staff and an external group analyst. There is a non-returnable application fee of £250 for this process, which is credited as a deposit against the course fee for successful applicants. Applicants are asked to discuss their application with the course convenor before sending in their application form and deposit. Those wishing to join the block therapy group will also have a consultation with the group conductor, for which a fee is payable.

Fees: No increase in fees since 2018!

Self-funding candidates have the option to pay by 9 monthly payments of £320: - total course fee of £3,130 (including deposit of £250). Organisations pay a standard fee of £3,500, but receive a 25% discount on the second place if funding two people. "Personally and academically rich learning experience, which I have valued hugely." (Clinical Psychologist)

"I have never felt so held, supported, encouraged in a learning environment before - an amazing experience." (Senior Therapist - non degree holder)

"Powerful learning, academically & experientially." (Consultant Psychiatrist)

Further training: Students who have undertaken appropriate group-analytic psychotherapy during the diploma will be eligible to apply for the Qualifying Course in Group Analysis, completed over a minimum of two and a half further years, with the opportunity to register with the United Kingdom Council for Psychotherapy.

York Groupwork Ltd. was established in 2008 to develop group-analytic training in this region. More than 200 students have already undertaken our diploma and foundation courses and several hundred our regular introductory day and other workshops.

We seek to promote equal opportunities and accessibility to training. We work with applicants to support them in seeking funding for the course and will advise on bursaries available. As group analysts, we value difference, encourage an understanding of cultural diversity and seek to live out these values in our work.
